Alex,

Obviously, if you have changed your mind concerning the agreements we reached last Friday regarding the subpoena (including agreeing to contact the process server to hold off on serving it), that is your option (such much for our meet and confer on that issue), but if you are going to “change the scope” of the subpoena, we will need to see a revised/amended subpoena and the return date for same so that we are given an opportunity to review it, evaluate whether and to what extent we will file a motion for protection as to it, and meet and confer with you on same in accordance with the S.D. Texas Local Rules.
